LOVE THYSELF LAST.

Love thyself last. Look near; behold thy duty
To those who walk beside thee down life's road;
Make glad their days by little acts of beauty,
And help them bear the burden of earth's load.

Love thyself last. Look far, and find the stranger
Who staggers 'neath his sin and his despair;
Go lend a hand and lead him out of danger,
To heights where he may see the world is fair.

Love thyself last. The vastnesses above thee
Are filled with Spirit Forces, strong and pure,
And fervently these faithful friends shall love thee,
Keep thy watch over others, and endure.

Love thyself last; and oh, such joy shall thrill thee
To see, to hear, to know and understand.
The message to the stars, lo! thou shalt hear it,
And all God's joys shall be at thy command.

Love thyself last; and thou shalt grow in spirit
To see, to hear, to know and understand.
The message to the stars, lo! thou shalt hear it,
And all God's joys shall be at thy command.

Love thyself last. The world shall be made better
By thee, if this brief motto forms thy creed,
Go follow it in spirit and in letter,
This is the Christ religion which men need.

SPUR-THRUST.

Through the half open door, Donald Michener heard her plainly speaking to her father: "Will you tell Mr. Michener that I do not care to see him, and that I do not care to have him call on me again." "But, Christine," her father protested doubtfully, "I can't carry a message like that unless the man's insulted you—and then," he ended grimly, "I should carry more than a message."

As Michener appeared in the doorway Mr. Laing started toward him. It was from her father Christine got her temper; but she stepped resolutely between them. "He isn't worth it, father," she said, turning her back on Michener.

Michener was sorry. He walked out of the room in such a cold rage, murder would not have abated it. When the primal man is accused he would as lief fight his host in his own house as any one else. Rage and mortification so filled his heart that he had no room for grief, though he had lost the girl he had tried long to win. And the injustice of it! For it was unjust, the measure of punishment meted out to him.

The next day Christine went riding with Kerningham. She was in a bad humor. She was angry with herself for the way she had treated Donald Michener; she was more angry with him, because of the way she had treated him; and she was most angry at Kerningham for daring to ride beside her in Michener's place and to put in his smug remarks when she was not in the humor for smug remarks. In passing it may be said that an unprejudiced person would not have called Kerningham's remarks any smugger than Michener's. Indeed, they were probably the more sensible of the two, at least when talking to Christine. Unfortunately, no prejudiced person was judge, and Mr. Kerningham's sentence was all ready to be pronounced should a suitable occasion arise. But no suitable occasion arose. Christine sulked; Christine was sarcastic; Christine was rude; Kerningham was imperturbably polite and good-natured.

"Are you tired to-day?" Kerningham asked, after an unusually snappish speech of the lady's.

"Riding never makes me tired," she answered curtly.

"It might be the company," he ventured.

"Haven't I been perfectly polite? How dare you say that?"

"I thought perhaps the contrast between your humble servant and your usual cavalier might have something to do with it," he went on placidly.

"I suppose you mean Mr. Michener. I certainly am not longing for him. I hate him!" she blazed.

"I shall never speak to him again!"

"Indeed! He is more fortunate than I had supposed."

It was Kerningham's one reprisal of the afternoon.

"Oh, I'm tired of riding so slowly!" Christine cried.

"Let us ride faster, then."

Almost at the first word Christine thrust her spur into her horse's side, and at the last Kerningham slapped his horse with his crop to try to catch up with her. It was not very dignified, this tearing along the road at a breakneck speed, particularly with the girl two lengths ahead, her horse showering him with gravel and dirt at every jump and gradually drawing farther away. Kerningham swore a little swear to himself which, considering his good nature all through the ride, was no more than his due, and cracked his horse again with his crop.

Michener, out riding by himself, heard the rattaplan of horses' hoofs far down the road and looked back. His ride had not been a pleasant one either. He was on a half-broken thoroughbred and his temper was not in the elastic state that it should have been for training a high-strung filly.

At the sound of horses running behind him, Michener looked around and saw a girl on a black horse flying up the street, her escort tearing along behind her.

As the running black came abreast of Michener his heart seemed to stop still for a moment as he saw that the girl was Christine. Then he froze into resentment again as he noticed that she sat perfectly collected on the horse and appealed to him in no way. As a matter of fact, she had not in the least lost control of her horse and was only working off her temper in this way. Michener's thoroughbred, with her long stride, easily kept pace with the clattering run of the round little black Christine was on.

"I beg your pardon," Michener said, as stiffly as the circumstances permitted, "but is your horse running away?" He tried to raise his hat formally, but it blew off before he reached the brim.

Christine gave him a side glance.

"Yes," she answered; "stop him for me."

She dropped the reins and dug her spur into her horse's flank, prodding him viciously.

The horse sprang more madly forward.

Michener was obliged to spur his own mare to keep up with the other's sudden jump. Then he had to use both hands to keep his filly, her racing blood afire, from running away from Christine's poor little conestoga. He soon had his hand on Christine's reins, however, and strove, first by steady pulling, and then by jerking, to slow her horse down, at the same time trying with his right hand to restrain his own filly so that she would act as a drag on the other.

Suddenly, as the two leaders swept around a slight bend in the road, they saw beneath a railroad trestle three hundred yards ahead, two four-horse teams, stopped for a friendly chat, completely blocking the road. Both riders realized the danger instantly. Christine reached for the reins she had dropped and began sawing her horse's mouth as hard as she could, but she was a little frightened and forgot to take her spur from the black's flank. Michener glanced at the two sides of the road. There was barbed wire on the right, and a paling fence on the left—on escape on either side, and the deliberate teamsters only gathering up their reins to move out of the way.

Michener moved his left hand up the reins of Christine's horse till he got a firm hold of the rings of the snaffle. Then kicking his feet out of his stirrups, he dropped his own reins, leaned over and caught the other horse's nostrils in his right hand, and then threw himself off his horse. The filly, relieved of his weight, flew on ahead, shied as she saw the teams, and then with a beautiful oblique jump cleared the barbed wire at the right and kept on across country.

Christine's horse made one terrible plunge and nearly fell when Michener swung from his saddle, then, with his wind cut off by the desperate grip on his nose, impeded by the weight at his head, as Michener dragged from it, he gradually slackened his speed, so that when he struck one of the leaders of the team headed toward them, though horse and girl and man went down in a heap, there was little damage done. Michener had the breath knocked out of him, and could only gasp wildly for breath, while Christine picked herself up, and laughing half hysterically, caught her horse, which had scrambled to his feet and stood trembling like a leaf.

Kerningham came up, sawing on his reins, his horse bouncing along with stiff forelegs stuck out to stop himself.

"Wasn't it great?" Christine cried, half laughing, half sobbing. "I was surprising my horse all the time Mr. Michener was tugging at his head."

The next day Michener was sitting in his office, still feeling the lassitude that comes after great excitement, when Mr. Laing came in. Both flushed a little, remembering their last interview, and the younger man interrupted the other's words of gratitude before they were half spoken. "Oh, it wasn't anything," he said, with embarrassment. "I really didn't know it was Miss Laing at first."

The words did not sound gracious, but Michener only wanted to make Mr. Laing feel under as little obligation to him as possible. They talked for a few minutes on indifferent subjects, and then Mr. Laing said, after an apologetic cough:

"There's a favor I want to ask of you. Christine wants you to come up to dinner to-morrow night."

"If you don't mind, I really don't believe I'll come," Michener answered. "She wouldn't have wanted me before—before this little episode, and it really isn't any reason for asking me."

"I know exactly how you feel," Mr. Laing said. "But—but to tell you the truth," he went on, a little helplessly, "Christine told me not to come home without your promise to come, and I really haven't the nerve to go back without it. You wouldn't like to make me a homeless wanderer at my age, would you?"

Michener laughed. "If you put it that way I can hardly refuse." Having saved Christine's life, he could hardly deny her a favor.

Michener dressed for the dinner that night without any pleasurable anticipation. He still had the apathetic feeling that follows great physical and mental strain. He was rather surprised when he arrived at the Laing's house to find that a number of other persons had been asked, and comforted himself with the thought that there would perhaps be less embarrassment in the larger number. To his considerable annoyance, his exploit was generally referred to, although Christine herself did not speak of it.

"My! how grand it is to know a hero!" little Miss King cried, rushing up to him after he had moved away from Christine. "Was that really all true they put in the paper?"

Christine came up to them. "You are to take me into dinner," she said to Michener, "unless you think you've more than done your duty by me already and would rather take Miss King."

"No," piped Miss King. "The poor man shan't be obliged to snub me. Mr. Kerningham, you take me in—since I can't have the hero."

Kerningham sat on Christine's left, and she spoke more to him than to Michener during the first part of the meal. At last, when all the others were busy talking, she turned to him, and said in the undertone, which itself is a compliment.

"Did you find your mare all right yesterday?"

"Yes," he answered.

"And will you let me ride her some day?"

"In order that you may run away from me, as you did from Kerningham?" Michener asked. "She's a little wild, and I don't believe she would be quite safe for you. She got the idea yesterday that she had thrown me and was boss of the ranch, and that makes a thoroughbred rather flighty."

Christine cast down her eyes. "I thought I saw you ahead yesterday, and I wanted to speak to you. That's why I made my horse run."

Michener smiled.

"What are you laughing at?" she asked with some pique.

"It's an unusual way for a lady to address a gentleman, isn't it?"

"The circumstances weren't usual," she answered, again looking down.

There was a little pause in the general conversation, and Christine turned to Kerningham on the other side.

"Have you bought yourself a swifter horse yet, so that you can do heroics, too?" she asked, a trace of mockery in her tone.

"Miss Laing has just been confiding to me," Michener put in, "that she made her horse run away on purpose. Doubtless she'll give all her friends a chance to get in the papers, one after the other."

"It really was your chance yesterday, Mr. Kerningham," Christine said gaily. "I don't know that you deserve another."

"Do give me a little one, some time when I'm ready for it. Donald snatched that one quite unfairly," he pleaded.

"You'll have to look out for him; he's a regular bandersnatch. And now that he's got into the papers, I expect he won't do a thing but roam around seeking what maidens he may devour—I mean, rescue."

As the hum of conversation rose again, Christine, her head half turned toward him, said to Michener—he sitting by her with the feeling that she was always ridiculing him—"Shall I apologize for the way I spoke to you the other day?"

"I wouldn't have you trouble yourself so," he answered, rather ungraciously.

She flushed scarlet. "I beg your pardon! Next time you see my horse running away you can let him go."

"Very well." Then, half smiling, he added: "Unless I venture to persuade myself that is another invitation to converse with you."

"I'm sorry I told you that," she said defiantly. "I thought—I imagined—" she softened a little—"that you would meet me half way."

He looked down into her eyes, forgetting the others at the table, though instinctively speaking so that she alone could hear. "Don't you think you deserve to come a little more than half way?"

"Shall I come all the way?" The corner of her lips went up into a smile.

Michener smiled, too, without answering.

Suddenly Christine rose to her feet, her guests looking up in surprise. "Ladies and gentlemen," she began formally, "you know you were asked here to-night to meet a hero whose courage is exceeded only by his modesty."

Again the mocking note in her voice made Michener's cheeks burn with resentment.

After a slight oratorical pause she continued: "You have all read the details of his noble act in the paper, and you may appreciate them the more by learning that the said details were not supplied to the press by the hero himself, but by another. I have this on the authority of Mr. Kerningham."

Christine stopped a minute and her guests laughingly applauded her. She hesitated an instant and glanced down at Michener. The color left her face as she went on, the note of railleury gone from her voice:

"Two days ago I was very rude to Mr. Michener. I want to ask his forgiveness, and—and—" a wave of color swept over her face, "to announce our engagement, if"—she turned toward him with a little appealing gesture of her hands—"if he will have me."

BALTIMORE.

August 4, 1906—"Fair weather this evening and Sunday, for Maryland and Virginia," is what the weather man has just shouted, but it isn't a bit fair that it is fair at the very moment the affair is over.

With rain coming down in torrents, thundering, making the hills and buildings re-echo and lightning flashing blinding streaks for a few moments, then, for the next few, Old Sol shining forth in his greatest glory, as if playing peek-a-boo, was the condition for all day Wednesday and Thursday—the days for the Druid Hill Picnic and the Tolchester Beach Excursion. With all the water, mud, and sunshine there were three hundred persons brave enough to face the "music," and the programme of the picnic was carried out, while a hundred only took advantage of the excursion.

These had an enjoyable time. One thing noticeable at these gatherings was the number of parents or relatives of deaf children, who brought them out and lent every effort in making a pleasant time. There was quite a number of hearing youngsters present, who took great interest, and they could not be distinguished from the deaf.

There was no inconvenience whatever for want of interpreters. Had it not been for the rain this would have been a record-making gathering. Every year shows and increase in popularity. Next year will be the occasion of the Eighth Bi-ennial Convention of the Maryland Association of the Deaf, and the outlooks are most encouraging. The majority of the Executive Committee have talked some on the matter and the dates, for the Convention will be the week preceding the Convention of the National Association of the Deaf, and will be announced as soon as the N. A. D. has appointed its time. This is done with a view of going to Norfolk in a body, and also to allow delegates coming to the National Association of the Deaf, pay us a visit and enjoy our hospitality.

In consequence of rain at the picnic there will be something of an exodus among the silent population of Baltimore next Thursday, the date of the Braddock Heights Picnic, a crowd always goes, and the day may come when a special will run from Baltimore out to Frederick City for the benefit of those wishing to attend. The B & O furnishes cars to the Maryland School between those places regularly. At Braddock dancing, sightseeing, trolleying and driving are the chief features, while at Druid Hill games and contests are arranged, and prizes awarded. There is always fun enough for all at both places.

STRAY STRAWS.

The most conspicuous and befitting sight at both picnic and Tolchester was Big Billy McElroy and his bounding charge. Papa Billy adheres to it with that same old zest, which made him so popular among the ladies before the burdens and blisses of wedlock were thrust upon him.

Mr. Geo. Schafer and his charming (hearing) bride were at the picnic, and his many friends had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Schafer.

Mr. James A. Brandlick was finally run down by your scribe. He was found in his den, corner Maryland Avenue and York Road, Baltimore, buried in a heap of old shoes. Some years back Mr. Brandlick was the partner of a man in Maryland Avenue, but they had a split and since then he has been hammering his own lasts, and so rapidly that the other fellow has long since stepped down and out of the avenue. Prosperity has smiled on our friend, and he has to keep busy six straight days in the week, and has to get sick when there is anything doing in the social world, in order to get a day off. He has just bought a fine brick house opposite his place of business, and will soon occupy it. He has also two fine cottages in the suburbs.

The Rev. Mr. Whildin is in Iowa, and he was conspicuous at the picnic for his absence.

Misses Edelen and Steiglar are up in the mining regions, near Frostburg, enjoying the sweet Alleghany Mountain air with their bosom friend, Miss Jeanette Peebles.

The McClary boys still conduct a successful riding and driving track at the Tolchester Park.

Alfred Feast had a "picnic" at the picnic trying to get the crowd to pose in the rain, while he spoiled half a dozen dry (?) plates. He got a couple of shots, and contemplated a feast, but there were too many pretty girls and homely old backs in the pack, and the plates just refused to accept the ingredients of a compound.

Something is going to happen in Baltimore ere many moons—it aint going to create any Russian boom consternation either. It'll only be the happening of the expected.

Mr. Wyand, of the Maryland School, is on his yearly trip to Baltimore, rounding up the little dodgers and heading them toward Frederick. Several have been picked up in Baltimore. The school will open on September 12th, and there will be a decided increase. The school is going to have one of the finest athletic fields in the State by a by. The boys have taken great interest in out door sports of late years, and they study better for it, too. A new cinder path will be built around the ball field, and other facilities made for field sports. A league will be formed with various High Schools, and the ground will be a place of amusement.

Rev. Austin W. Mann's Mission Work.

The Rev. Austin W. Mann, of Cleveland, O., held services for the deaf-mutes of the city in the Sunday school-room of St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday afternoon.

In the morning at 10:30 he celebrated the Holy Communion at St. Mark's Mission for Deaf-Mutes. Both minister and communicants are deaf-mutes, and the services were performed in the sign language.

The afternoon service began at 3 o'clock and lasted an hour and a half. The responses and the sermon were rendered in the sign language and were greatly appreciated by the sixty deaf-mutes present.

HAS BUILT MANY MISSIONS.

Rev. Mr. Mann, who is about sixty years of age, is general missionary of the Episcopal Church to the deaf-mutes of the middle and western diocese. He was appointed to that position in 1872, and has, since that time, been making visits to all of the large cities in the territory assigned to him.

He has been instrumental in building up a large number of missions expressly for deaf-mutes, and has been the means of bringing nearly one thousand deaf-mutes and their children into the communion of the Church. Although his home is in Cleveland, he is continually traveling. After leaving here he will go to Detroit, where services will be held next Sunday.

ORGANIZED ST. MARK'S MISSION.

Rev. Mr. Mann was licensed by the Right Reverend Samuel Allan McCosky, first Bishop of Michigan. Four years ago he celebrated in this city the twenty-fifth anniversary of his first visit to Cincinnati, when he organized St. Mark's Mission. Since that first visit he has been a guest of friends here five or six times each year.

He has the distinction of being the first deaf-mute ordained west of the Alleghanies, and the second deaf-mute ordained since apostolic days. He is now the oldest of the seven deaf-mute clergy of the Episcopal Church in the United States and England, and, as there are no deaf clergy outside of the English speaking people, he is, therefore, the oldest deaf-mute clergyman in the world.

HELD FIRST SERVICE HERE.

He held his first service in Cincinnati in what was known as the vestry room of the present chapel. This was in 1877.

Rev. Mr. Mann is slightly crippled, but persists in making the rounds of his missions and holding services. Always patient and cheerful the members of the deaf-mute missions in the various cities give him a hearty welcome on each visit.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, July 30, 1906.

WAPAKONETA, O.

The second annual reunion of the deaf was held at Fairview Park, Dayton, O., instead of Overlook Park, West Milton, O., on July 28th. Nearly ninety deaf people attended the reunion. No prizes were given.

The third annual reunion of the deaf will be held at Overlook Park, West Milton, O., next year. Prizes will be given contestants. A base ball game will be played between the "Alberts" vs. "Riddles." Hope there will be over one hundred and fifty deaf people present.

About three weeks ago the chain factory in St. Mary's, O., was destroyed by fire, where Harry Dix and Fred Koehn work. After the fire Fred Koehn went to Marion, Ind., and has secured work in the chain factory there. Harry Dix is still in St. Mary's, and is cleaning up the chain factory, which was destroyed. The chain shop will be rebuilt and it will be completed next winter.

Thomas Hanchuff, formerly of Columbus, worked in the Wapakoneta Wheel Co., in this city, last summer. He is now in Minneapolis, where he works with his uncle.

We learn that William Schneider, formerly of Ohio, is now in Oregon.

On August 5th, Roy Bingham, of Columbus, was in this city, the guest of Harley Goetz.

Edward Dinger, of this city, will go to Lake View, O., on August 26th, to fish for a week. He will be accompanied by three hearing friends.

John C. Winemiller was in Piqua, O., as the guest of Harley Drake, two weeks ago. The former will go back to Colorado next Fall, and he will become a regular teacher. He is in the country to visit his uncle.

Harley Goetz will go to Anna, O., to visit his relatives, where they live on a farm, next week. He expects to stay in the country for two weeks.

Lizzie McNally, of St. Mary's, was in this city, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson last week. She will go to Indiana, where she will visit her sister sometime this month.

Edward Dinger will probably go to Cincinnati to visit his deaf friends this month.

The deaf-mutes here are doing well. OLD DUTCH.

Sanitary Bedding Company.

J. H. WILLIAMS, President.

The sanitation of the entire house and its furniture has come to assume more and more leading place in the interests of our people. One firm which has had much to do with the accommodations which our people have in this line, is known as The Sanitary Bedding Company, and is to be found at 420-422 Santa Fe Avenue. The latest and most modern appliances and machinery for a work of this nature is to be found in their establishment, and the employees are the most experienced to be found in this line of work. Although this concern saw the light but three years ago, fourteen men are now employed to look after the many orders, and in addition to making sanitary bedding of all kinds they do a general business of renovating, cleaning, etc. A specialty is made of cleaning carpets, and the entire house will be renovated if desired, thus saving the worry and tear of the annual spring house cleaning. Mr. J. H. Williams, the gentleman who is conducting this establishment is one of our oldest and best known business men. Mr. A. J. Lamoreaux, the manager, is one of our best known and most able business men. He has spent many years in the line of work and it is greatly to his praise that this firm has achieved such a prominent place in our industrial and commercial world in the time it has been here.—Colorado Democrat, Pueblo, July 27.

That wrong is also done to us,
And they are slaves most base,
Whose love of right is for themselves,
And not for all the race."

THE superstition that clings to the number "thirteen" as unlucky, we hope will not prove so in the case of the Indiana Institution. It is said that the first shovelful of earth was lifted from the ground, in digging the foundation of the new school buildings at Indianapolis, on the thirteenth day of August. It is also said to be lucky to begin a new undertaking on the first day of the week. So, let us console ourselves with the belief that the good-luck attaching to the day of the week will in this instance neutralize any ill-omened foreboding concerning the day of the month that superstitions individuals may entertain. Personally, the editor of the JOURNAL places no confidence in omens good or bad. The only kind of luck he believes in, is the good that is earned or the evil that results from act or intention. Nine times out of ten, what a man calls bad luck is the result of laziness or poor judgment, and it will generally be found that so-called "lucky fellows" are those who have hustled and wrought.

National Association of the Deaf.

Organized, August 25, 1880.
Incorporated, Feb. 23, 1900.

President, G. W. VEDITZ, Secretary, Jas. H. CLOUD, Treasurer, N. P. MORROW, Ind.

Vice-Presidents, D. W. GEORGE, Ill., and W. W. BARRETT, Ia. O. J. WHILDEN, Mo., J. P. DONNELLY, N. Y.

To the members of the National Association of the Deaf.—It gives me great pleasure to announce the Local Committee of Arrangements for the Convention of the National Association to be held at Norfolk in the summer of 1907.

The Committee will consist of Mr. Wm. C. Ritter, Hampton, Va., (Chairman); Mr. J. H. Hecke, Richmond; Mr. Arthur G. Tucker, Richmond; Mr. Thomas M. Jenkins, Portsmouth; Mr. George P. Duane, Portsmouth; Mr. John L. Randolph, Norfolk; Mr. Chas. A. Bruce, Norfolk; Mr. S. Clarence Jones, Staunton; Mr. G. W. Veditz, Colorado Springs, ex-officio. Upon the shoulders of these gentlemen will rest in a large measure the success of the social side of the convention. The mark they have set themselves is to not only make the convention an unqualified success, but also to make it greater and better than any that preceded it, and in this very commendable purpose they will have the enthusiastic support of the entire body of the deaf of the Old Dominion.

The Committee to arrange the business program of the Convention will consist of Mr. G. W. Veditz, (Chairman); Mr. Edwin A. Hodgson, New York; Mr. J. Cooke Howard, Minnesota.

Suggestions as to papers to be read and topics to be discussed will be received by the committee with pleasure.

I am awaiting a communication from Mr. Robert H. Sexton, in charge of the bureau of congresses, etc., at Norfolk, as to the dates of the most noteworthy spectacular events during the exposition. As soon as I hear from Mr. Sexton, I shall submit his statement to the Executive Committee, to serve in a way as a guide in the selection of our own dates.

Yours very truly,
G. W. VEDITZ, Chairman.

The College contingent occupy the whole of the third floor of 322 Michigan Avenue, overlooking the lake. They are made up of the following: Messrs. Roberts, Fisher, McKessell, Reichard, Rowse and Karsell. The rooms used to be occupied by Williamson, Gore, Flint and others of the famous old stocking team. They feed at the Vickers Hotel Restaurant.

Fred Scholz, who left Columbus, O., in 1888, has been employed here as a tanner for many years, but has not been seen in public much till he appeared at the church service.

Leon Laingor, who as a skilled carpenter, has worked on notable buildings as the University of Chicago, returned from New Orleans, where he had been working on contract, on an I. C. R. R. elevator. He has got another good job here.

Fred Harrison, printer in the Government Printing Office, at Washington, D. C., has struck Chicago. He is on his usual thirty days' vacation and thinks of going as far as Denver. He reports the deaf clerks in the Departments as doing well, especially Arthur Chambers of the War Department. The latter, who in the primeval days of baseball, used to catch flies in a field six inches deep in water off the bats of the Wright Brothers, got into the War Department and has stuck since. Lately he became the victim of a windfall—a brother owner of a mine out West, dying and making him his heir. Chambers resigned his place in the War Department and went splurging "four hundred" style. However, he got tired of it, applied for his old job and is back at it.

Ivan Heymanzon bobbed up at church in raiment of the Solomon's lily order and notified us that he was on the wing again and would soon be lost in around the State.

Ben Neely, an old Fanwood boy, of 1868, has been employed with the Crane Bros., as machinist for fifteen years, like Mr. Codman, and receives a bonus equal to ten per cent of his wages every Christmas. It was an easy proposition to get him to subscribe to the JOURNAL. He lives at 406 Winchester Avenue.

Miss Mary Given, a Hoosier, has been employed in Chicago over a year.

Dick Watson is camping out with a big party of forty-seven men and boys.

Rev. Mr. Mann met with an accident in a railroad smash up, in which four were killed and eighty injured. It must have been a providential escape. Necessarily, he had to postpone his engagements, and so there was no service at the Hibbard Memorial Chapel. The postal card sent by Mrs. Mann was not adequate, and we will soon learn more particulars. Mr. Mann seems to bear a charmed life, for though he has traveled thousands of miles in his life time, he has not met with an accident worth mentioning.

Miss Laura Sheridan is here for the summer, and will occupy the pulpit next Sunday in Mr. Hasenstab's absence. Miss Vina Smith has not yet returned from her vacation, which is being spent in Indiana. By the way, what is there in Hoosier soil that produces such men in the clergy line as Revs. Mann, Hasenstab and Dantzer, and Misses Sheridan and Smith, as clergymen?

Carrie Marion Hankinson

only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Hankinson, died at the home of her parents, on Mechanic Street, Freehold, N. J., at ten o'clock, last Friday night, July 27, 1906, aged 12 years, 2 months and 27 days. Her death followed an operation for appendicitis, which was performed at her home the previous day. She had suffered from appendicitis for several days, but it was considered best not to perform an operation if it could possibly be avoided as the little girl had undergone an operation for the removal of pus from the cavity at the Long Branch hospital a few months ago. Thursday it was found necessary to operate, but gangrene had set in and although everything possible was done, she could not be saved. Carrie possessed an unusually bright disposition and had many friends. Her parents are both deaf and they have the sympathy of every one. Her funeral, Tuesday, at 1:30 P.M., at the house, and 2 o'clock at the Methodist Church, was largely attended, and many floral mementoes were sent by friends. A professor from the State school at Trenton, attended the services and translated the sermon and hymns to the bereaved parents. Six young men, Benjamin Youman, G. Harold Marshall, Raymond Schanz, Arthur Yetman, Joseph Crotechelt and George Ackerman, acted as pallbearers. They carried the casket on their shoulders. The little girls from the Sunday-school class, of which Carrie was a member, dropped flowers in the casket at the church and also in the grave at Maplewood Cemetery. Besides her parents, one brother, Benjamin, survives.

Among those present at the funeral were Prof. Weston Jenkins, Miss Sarah Sturmwald, Mrs. Henry Schanack, and Mr. Thomas Jamison.

The Silent Missions.

At the last convention of the diocese of Ohio the Rev. Austin W. Mann, who has been ministering to deaf-mutes since 1872 in the great Middle West, had read a report in which he stated that during the period of his ministry he had held more than 5,800 silent services in 419 parishes, had baptized nearly 1,000, many of them children of deaf-mute parents, and had presented 900 for confirmation. Mr. Mann estimated that he had written some 50,000 letters and postal cards during the period of his service and over $500 in the past year. He had found work to keep him busy ever since he received his first lay-reader's license from the Bishop of Michigan, thirty-four years ago. Mr. Mann's work has indeed been that of a pioneer, and, though those to whom he ministers give what they can, his work deserves aid from outside and is of a character to appeal to the more fortunate who can hear and speak.—The Churchman, August 4, 1906.

Queer Tale of Assault.

A well-dressed woman sat on the curb at One Hundred and Seventy-seventh street and Third Avenue last evening with blood on her white shirt waist. As her peculiar actions drew crowd, a patrolman took her to the station house. There Sergeant McKee discovered that she was deaf and dumb.

She wrote that she was Clara Quigg, of No. 400 West Thirty-first street, and that early in the evening, as she was passing Thirty-first Street and Tenth Avenue, two men jumped out of a doorway, and while one grabbed her by the neck, the other struck her on the head. The blow dazed her, she said, and she remembered little more, except that she got on an elevated train and got off where the patrolman found her.

The police detained her to investigate her story.—N. Y. World, Aug. 8.

The Wholesome Onion.

Onions are stated to be almost the best nerve known. No medicine, it is claimed, is so useful in cases of nervous prostration, and there is nothing else that will so quickly relieve and tone up a worn-out system. Onions are useful in all cases of coughs, colds and influenza and if they are taken regularly are very good for the complexion.

PITTSBURG, PA.

The Local Branch of the P. S. A. D. held its business meeting at Washington Hall, last Saturday evening, President Leitner in the chair. Before the regular business proceeded, Mrs. George Annis took the platform and told of how so faithful and honest a treasurer, in saving the money which the members of the Savings Club of Pittsburgh have contributed the past two years, for the purpose of going to Philadelphia, to attend the twenty-fifth anniversary convention, who was Mr. Hugh B. McMaster, and with worthy faith, he paid every cent with interest last week. To show him the thanks of the members, Mrs. Annis presented him with a fine silk umbrella at which Mr. McMaster was surprised, but grateful, and returned words of many thanks. Then on reading the minutes of the past two meetings, Secretary Cowley being away on his summering trip in Vermont, Daniel Moran was appointed Secretary, pro tem. The matters were moved and passed, Chairman Rolhouse, of the Means and Ways Committee and of the Local Committee, reported the same as was already printed in last week's JOURNAL, given by Chairman Zeigler, about the program of the coming convention to be held in Pittsburgh, on August 31st and September 1st. In addition, the Chairman announced Mr. Zeigler will be present here, and will declare the justification of his action in postponing the said convention until next year.

Discussion on the questions appeared lively. Miss Woodside is in charge of arranging a dinner and supper to be served in the hall of the Eighth Reformed Presbyterian Church for the delegates and visitors. The proceeds will go to the Home—50 cents each.

Treasurer McMaster gave the names of members, which will be sent to the JOURNAL, by Treasurer Reider himself.

Every hope is found in the positive success of the coming convention.

BUFFALO.

WEDDING BELLS!

The joyous chimes of the wedding bells have just ceased, the clock struck the hour of eleven, the bride and bridegroom have mysteriously disappeared, the wedding guests have departed and quiet reigns supreme once more at 84 Hoyt Street.

What does the above mean, you ask?

Listen and I will tell you. At four o'clock on this beautiful afternoon of August 8th, 1906, at Bethany Presbyterian Church, Buffalo, N. Y., one of the prettiest weddings occurred. Before a throng of relatives and friends, Miss Annie Lavinia MacPhail, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh MacPhail, became the wife of Mr. J. Reginald Cook.

Promptly at four o'clock in accompaniment to the strains of a wedding march, the bridal party slowly marched up the main aisle to the altar, where the groom with his best man, Mr. F. Dalley, of Hamilton, Ont., were in waiting for them. First came two ushers, Mr. Hugh MacPhail, brother of the bride, and Mr. Albert Wilson, following came the bridesmaid, Miss Helen MacPhail, sister of the bride, attired in a lovely gown of pink silk, trimmed with valenciennes insertion and lace, carrying a bouquet of pink roses, following came the bride attired in a beautiful gown of white radium silk and lace, carrying a bouquet of white bride roses, leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. George B. MacPhail. The Rev. Mr. F. Carleton officiating.

Directly after the ceremony, the bridal party, followed by those of the wedding guests were driven to the home of the bride's parents, 84 Hoyt Street, where an elegant reception followed. The wedding supper was served by caterers.

At a late hour the bride and bridegroom, unknown to all, managed to disappear, and all effort to pursue them was futile.

The congratulations showered upon the couple were spontaneous. The wedding gifts were many and beautiful. A few we mention here. From Mr. Staubitz, solid silver set of cream pitcher, sugar bowl and teaspoon cup; Rev. and Mrs. C. O. Dantzer, silver pie knife; Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Weil, cut glass vinegar bottle; Miss Carroll, cut glass sugar bowl and cream pitcher; Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Klein, china cake plate and olive dish; Miss Brown, silver chafing set; Mr. Cowley, '93, Gallaudet, solid silver cream ladle; Mr. MacKay, cut glass ink stand; Mr. and Mrs. McDermid, complete dinner set; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. MacPhail, table linen. Among many of the gifts we observed three beautiful clocks, which denotes the couple will never be "behind time."

The couple will make a two weeks' honeymoon trip through points of picturesque Canada—Montreal, Quebec, then down the St. Lawrence River to the Thousand Islands.

Among those of the deaf present at the ceremony we observed the following: Mr. Ernest, Cowley, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mr. William MacKay, Toronto, Ont.; Miss M. A. Carroll, Mrs. S. D. Weil, Miss N. C. Lesher, Miss M. Schweikhardt, Miss Reilly, Mrs. G. J. Klein, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moynihan, Mr. A. H. J. Staubitz and Mrs. G. E. M. Nelson. Mr. R. Mathison, of Belleville, was also present.

NEW YORK.

Charles Edward Green Dead.

THE GUILD OUTING.

News of the Week.

News items for this column should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.

A few words of information in a letter or on a postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

Mr. Charles Edward Green died, on Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock, in the Consumptives' Home, Brooklyn, at the age of fifty-one years. He leaves a widow (nee Edith Averill, a graduate of the Fanwood School), two daughters and an infant son.

Mr. Green's sickness began several months ago. He was a member of the Royal Arcanum, and that order procured for him a bed in St. John's Hospital. As his disease, tuberculosis, was incurable, he was removed to the Consumptives' Home.

Charles E. Green's case was one of the most peculiar on record. In his early boyhood, a severe attack of fever destroyed the sense of hearing. He was then a resident of Virginia, being born in Richmond. He was sent to the school for the deaf at Staunton, to be educated, and remained there for several years. At the age of fifteen his hearing began to return, and in early manhood he was able to hear as well as anybody. He began to understand spoken language and learned to talk quite well, but up to the last his language retained some of that peculiarity of construction which characterizes the deaf-mute.

During the past fifteen or twenty years, his ability to hear, coupled with a knowledge of the sign language, caused his services to be in demand as interpreter in the courts of law, when deaf-mutes were concerned. He also was quite active in religious and charitable work among the deaf.

His funeral occurred at his late home, 213 Deyward Street, Brooklyn, on Friday evening at eight o'clock, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Dr. John Chamberlain, Vicar of St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes. The parlor in which the services were held, was crowded with deaf-mute and hearing friends.

The remains lay in a broadcloth casket with silver handles and name-plate, and were covered with floral tributes, among which were: A large pillow of asters and roses with the word "Husband" in purple immortelles; a wreath of roses and ferns, with the word "Papa;" a large floral wreath of asters, roses, gladiolas and ferns, from fellow employees of Mr. Green in the firm of Sheppard Knapp & Co.; an immense wreath of asters and roses from the Royal Arcanum; Victor palms, from his sister-in-law, Harriet; a floral cross, from Mr. and Mrs. Jubring; a floral piece from Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Deszendorf. The interment was on Saturday morning, August 11th, at Cypress Hills.

Among the deaf who were present at the services on Friday were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jubring, Mrs. Mary Evans, Mrs. Alexander McIlwraith, Mrs. John Lounsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Boswell, Mrs. Friedman, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Blake, Mr. George L. Reynolds, Mr. W. G. Gilbert, Mr. George Walsh, Mr. E. A. Hodgson, Mrs. John Chamberlain, the sympathetic wife of the officiating clergyman, was also present.

Rain again interfered with the Guild Outing, which, had been postponed from July to Saturday last.

However, the attendance was pretty good, and part of the program of field events was pulled off. The committee, Messrs. Abrams and Renner, provided five prizes, but these were eventually drawn for by lot, as the conditions of competition could not be carried out.

In the 100-yd. race for ladies, Miss Bertha Taggard came in first, with Misses Kelleher, Shelley and Lillian Shaw in the order named.

Edward Elsworth was first in 100-yds. dash for men, with Messrs. Miller, Jarboe and Renner close up at the finish.

The Judges in these races were Messrs. Hodgson and LeClerc. Mr. Maynard officiated as starter.

At sundown many of those present spread their luncheons, and with soda water on the side and an occasional cup of coffee, had a delightful picnic on the big, covered piazza of Muller's Hotel.

It was nearly ten o'clock when the last of the party took the trolley for home.

A profit of over ten dollars was realized.

One of the daily newspapers tells the following story:—

"Joseph H. Toohey and his wife Sophy, who are deaf and dumb and live at 499 West 129th Street, had a lively argument in the finger language last night while riding uptown in an Amsterdam Avenue car. Oscar Weitz, the conductor, had noticed their hands going rapidly through the air as they emphasized some essential points.

"At 129th Street the couple wanted to get off. Toohey motioned to the conductor to stop the car, but Weitz thought that that he was getting a little more positive in his argument. The mute man started to wave his arms frantically, and but conductor continued his belief that he was only trying to convince his wife of something that she refused to be convinced of.

"At 135th Street Toohey lost his patience, and without any warning went up to the conductor and gave him a stinging blow on the nose. Weitz complained to Policeman Halligan of the 135th Street Police Station, who took the pair of mutes to the police station. There Sergt. McNally was up against a hard problem in trying to find out what Toohey had to say for himself. The Sergeant at last asked him to write it down. When Weitz understood why Toohey hit him he withdrew the complaint, and the couple were allowed to go."

Mr. Chris E. Vernon and Miss Annie C. Kugler went to Far Rockaway, last Saturday, to see Robbins' Circus, to which George McKeranah (playing under the name of George Pantzer) is attached as a clown, acrobat and tumbler. The circus has left for the next stop at Catskills, N. Y. Mr. Vernon and Miss A. C. Kugler bought reserved seats, but were advised to sell them as they were not what they wanted, accordingly they got their money back. During the performance, near about after two-thirds of the acts were finished, the reserved seats collapsed, but hurting only two as far as known, although about fifty yards of four tiers of seats fell down. They were all crowded, in fact, all seats in the tent were taken and some were seated on the ground. The performance continued, although the tent was in disorder, the people refusing to be seated and crowded around the rings through the rest of the performance.

Mrs. Annie Mickelson (sister of Mrs. Eichelser, nee Katie Gartland) had a very sad accident happen to her little boy, "Dee-Dee," last June. He was playing in a yard, and climbed upon a grating which was over stone steps, and fell off and down about eight feet to the stone flagging below. His head was badly injured and he died two days after, and is buried in Woodlawn Cemetery. Mr. Chris E. Vernon attended the funeral, besides other hearing relatives and friends. The neighbors and friends sent many beautiful floral offerings. Mrs. K. Eichelser was unable to attend the funeral, being in Worcester, Mass.

The New York deaf-mutes contemplating going to New Haven to attend the New England Gallaudet Convention will find a boatload of deaf people on the Steamer Richard Peck, which leaves New York, Pier 20, East River, at 2:45 P. M., on Saturday, August 18th, due in New Haven at 7:30 P. M. Those unable to attend the Convention on Monday and Tuesday can return by the Sunday midnight boat, which leaves for New York at 12:45, due in New York at 5:45 Monday morning.

The Skate Fishing Club will go to the fishing banks on the "Taurus" next Friday. All friends are welcome. The catches are expected to be flounders, black bass and white fish. Those who have not the tackle should buy it on the boat, as then they get the right kind, also bait. But for those who have tackle they should bring No. 4 and 6 size hooks, heavy rod, or strong hand string and heavy sinkers.

Miss Annie C. Kugler, upon request, went to Bridgeport, Conn., to see Miss Freda Kugler, who is very sick, and living with Mrs. Bessie Benjamin. Miss Annie Kugler spent two days there. Miss Freda Kugler has no acquaintances among the deaf of Bridgeport, and would be pleased to have some see her. Her address is 18 Ashley Street, care Mrs. Bessie Benjamin.

B. F. Buhle, a son of Mrs. Wilhelm Buhle, was married on June 20th, the bride being Miss Mary Staple, of Jersey City. His mother and her sister, Mrs. Mark, will reside with the young couple in Jersey City. Mr. Buhle is an expert Public Accountant.

The latest fishing excursion made by Messrs. Pach, Porter, Muench and LeClerc was successful in two cases. LeClerc got five flukes; Pach, four flukes and a skate; Muench got seaseik, and Porter got tired because he could not catch anything.

Jos. F. Graham has packed his grip and gone to Saratoga, N. Y., for an indefinite stay.

Morris McMickle is wearing the uniform of a special policeman in Midland Park, Middletown, N. Y. Mr. Sloat, a regular policeman of New York City, met him there and gave him a few points as to how the truncheon should be twisted around the wrist.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roberts have been spending their vacation at White Plains and Rye Beach. Mrs. Roberts will go to the New Haven Convention, and on her return will with her husband reside in Rutherford, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Henry, of LeRoy, N. Y., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln A. Thompson, of Hunt, N. Y., for two weeks. Mrs. Thompson before marriage was Miss Emma Larsen, of this city.

Messrs. Bachrach and Bloom visited Mr. and Mrs. Schoenfeld last Sunday. The latter are visiting Mrs. Schoenfeld's sister, who has a cottage at Rockaway Park, L. I.

Several New York deaf-mutes take one of the two trains that leave Grand Central Station on Sunday morning, at ten and eleven o'clock.

Willis Denson, of Corning, N. Y., will be in New York this week, and later will go to Atlantic City for a couple of weeks.

INDIANA.

Indiana Agency of DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, 320 Blake Street, Indianapolis. News items and subscriptions solicited. A. H. NOMIS, Agent.

It has been our fortune to meet at various times and places individuals of various degrees of meanness—and from our observation we believe the medal for being the meanest man on earth should be given to the two-faced individual, who meets one with open arms and assures you that you are the very best fellow on earth and that he is proud of you as a friend. Then turns around while you are not looking and paints you all kinds of colors, in fact, trying to induce others to believe you a monster, who ought to be in State prison or the insane asylum.

We have met quite a number of such persons, and we regret to say that most of them were deaf. Such sneaks deserve no consideration at the hands of decent people. They are moral lepers of the worst kind. The man who will invent a method of effectually squashing such individuals will certainly earn the gratitude of all mankind.

Some time since one of our local colony happened to be in a drug store, and detected a thief in the act of stealing several boxes of cigars, while the druggist was behind the prescription case. Not wishing to make an outcry, lest he frighten the thief, our friend quietly shadowed him to his lair, then ran back to inform the druggist. As a result, the thief is now in the workhouse and a neighboring grocer was fined for receiving stolen goods. Our friend requests his name withheld.

Leon Bonham, briquette maker, is how it goes now. The coal business is too slow to suit our versatile friend.

Mrs. George A. Grubbs is visiting her parents in the northern part of the State. At last accounts Mr. Grubbs was headed in that direction. One gets lonesome, you know.

George Arnot, Howard Overheizer, Frank and Ledger Sackett, spent Sunday in Vincennes recently. Not to be outdone, the irrepressible N. Lee Harris and Robert E. Binkley must follow suit. These latter two are easily entitled to the championship when it comes to a show down of pleasure trips. Fact is, they seldom have time to eat a square meal between trips.

Perry Keys, of New Market, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar V. Mullendore, of Franklin, were recent visitors to the metropolis.

The army manoeuvres at Fort Benjamin Harrison, are drawing large crowds to this city. This week promises to be the banner week, as the Indiana guardsmen will be in camp.

Monday, August 13th, witnessed the turning of the first shovel of earth for our new school. The engineers have been at work for some time, and now that mother earth has been opened and things set going with appropriate ceremonies, we can look forward and see one of the finest schools in the world opened to the deaf of Indiana in 1908.

Indianapolis Society is patting itself on the back and congratulating itself generally on the acquisition of Miss Virginia Robertson, formerly of Lafayette. Miss Robertson and her mother now make their home with a brother on North Pennsylvania Street, but leave this week for a few weeks' vacation in Michigan.

The lithographers strike has caused a large demand for lithographers from the Winona Technical Institute, but the employers require all who are employed to sign a three years contract to stay out of the union. Wm. J. Geiffus has been offered a position and asked to sign such a contract, but Billy is foxy and will probably remain in school another year.

August 10, 1906.—The Rev. Geo. H. Flick will hold a service at Trinity Church, on Thursday, August 23d, at 7:30 P. M.

The Rev. Austin W. Mann was prevented from filling appointments at Ephphatha Mission, Detroit, on Sunday, August 5th, by a collision on the Lake Shore Electric Railway. Four persons lost their lives, and many were injured more or less severely. The Rev. Mr. Mann was one of the injured. He returned home as soon as possible, and had the wound attended to by the family doctor. He expects to be at work again soon. The collision, due to disobedience of orders on part of the motorman, occurred a short distance west of Vermillion, O.

The thirty-fourth anniversary of the marriage of the Rev. and Mrs. Austin W. Mann comes on August 18th.

The Columbus Dispatch had the following the other evening:

"Paralyzed to such extent that he is practically helpless, and added to this infirmity failing eyesight, fast approaching blindness, Robert King, once known to every man and boy in Columbus as catcher of the old Buckeye baseball team, famous as an aggregation of players forty years ago, back in 1866, is now spending his last days in the county infirmary.

"When King, then a young man in his twenties, was catcher for the Buckeyes, he was known as one of the greatest players in the country. Those were the days before mitts and masks and other devices protecting the man behind the bat had come into use, before they were even thought of, in fact, and the old player's hands, with crooked fingers and thumbs, show the punishment that the catcher then had to take. King is now an old man of 60, with little left but the memories of his old baseball days.

"He is almost entirely helpless, and spends his days in the infirmary hospital, either in bed or in his wheel-chair. He has been in the infirmary since 1898.

And this, last Saturday:

"Was he a real 'dummy' or was he one of the 'foxiest' prisoners that was ever received at the penitentiary? Ira H. Mundell, the only deaf and dumb man behind the walls, was released Saturday morning upon the expiration of a one year sentence, from Columbiana County, for grand larceny. Mundell is believed by the prison officials to be just as able to talk and just as able to hear as any person.

"They say that he never spoke a word while he was in the penitentiary. He is forty-seven years of age and was employed peeling potatoes in the idle house, because of his infirmities.

"Deputy Warden Wood believes that he has served terms in other prisons, but Mundell would not say anything, when they tried to talk with him with pencil and paper. He did not say anything during his trial, but was considered a very 'foxy' individual.

"Mundell is going back to Lisbon, his home."

The Buckeye Republican Club, of this city, had its annual outing at Cedar Point Tuesday. The rate was $1.25 round trip, and about 1,200 people went. Of course, not all members. The following deaf joined: Messrs. McGrattan, Cook, Case, Toomy, Kimmick, Bingaman, Tussing, Greener, and Misses Ethel Zell, Bessie McFadden and Gomell.

Superintendent Byers, of the Home, was also of the number, besides several Institution people. About noon rain began to fall, and that compelled most of the people to remain under shelter the rest of the day. Despite the rainfall, the club members gave a water parade.

Miss Zell went up to spend several weeks at Camp Zorn. Mr. Cook, Miss McFadden and we visited the place, and found Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Davis, of Sandusky, enjoying tent life. Messrs. Davis, Beckert and Ohlemacher were off fishing. The latter soon returned empty handed, the others a little later brought in a fine catch of assorted fish. The party has up four tents for use, and is prepared to enjoy life in the open air and water. Mr. and Mrs. Frelwider, of Mansfield, were visitors earlier in the week, besides several other friends from Sandusky. Shortly before the train started for home Antonius Ciresi and Walter Lynn, residing in Sandusky, called on their former school-mates. They are employed in grocery stores.

Mrs. Peter Shindorff is in Cleveland for a month's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Malinowski, and Miss Eva La Fountaine is visiting her sister in Loraine.

Wm. Behmyer was a visitor in Columbus, last Sunday, as was also Miss Della Snyder.

Miss Buchanan, of East Town Street, has as her guest for a couple of weeks, Miss Estella Mote, of Cincinnati.

A lawn fete will be given for the benefit of the Home under the auspices of the Charity Circle, on the grounds of Mrs. Horace Fisher, 404 Crestline Avenue, Price Hill, Cincinnati, Saturday evening, August 25th, from 3 to 10 P. M. Tickets, including ice cream, ten cents. In case of rain, the affair will be postponed to September 1st. To get there take the Elberon car to Crestline steps. We hope the Cincinnati deaf will turn out en masse and make the affair a success.

Mr. J. C. Miller, teacher in the North Carolina School for the Deaf, was in the city for a couple of days this week, having come up from Fisher P. O., O., to attend to some business. He has been for some time with Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, parents of the late Mrs. Mabel Fisher Miller, where his three little children are passing the vacation. He reports them getting fat, browned, and growing.

Mr. Frank R. Gray, of Pittsburg, struck the town, Thursday, minus any astronomical instruments for which he has an especial interest. He was on his way to his parents' home in Illinois. Excepting for the black beard and mustache, he looks and acts still the Frank of Gallaudet College in the seventies. He visited the Home, which he was very much desirous of seeing, Friday, in company with a friend, of the fair sex, and will have some pointers for the Pennsylvania people, to give out when he returns.

Mrs. Flora Voelkel Rose, of Dayton, is visiting her nephew, Mr. Charles Wendt, 1242 North Holstead Street, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Walker moved to Springfield a few weeks ago, Mr. Walker having secured a place in the Piano Plate factory.

Mr. J. A. Horn, of Zanesville, after attending the reunion at Dayton, went to Cincinnati, where he spent a day sight-seeing, and then on to Huntington, W. Va., where he is having a pleasant time with Mr. and Mrs. Callison.

There is no foundation in the report given out by an irresponsible party that the Cincinnati Anderson Club was a thing of the past. It has only closed up quarters for the time being to save expense of rent. It has ample funds in the bank, and when the members of the club see fit to open up a room again it will be done. Efforts to have the club disbanded and for the members to join the Fraternal Society for the Deaf have been made as with other like associations, but they have proved a failure despite the fact that the man working the scheme announces with a flourish of trumpets that so and so has left his club and joined the Order. Similar attempts to disrupt the Dayton Advance Society have been made.

"J. I. S." parallel as to the benefits the F. S. D. bestows didn't go far enough. He should have stated that each member of the order had to plank down $1.00 to pay off a $200 claim, and as there about three hundred members, what became of the other $100. Probably the $100 went to pay expenses of Mr. Kessler to Buffalo, N. Y., as a swelling committee, and the rest to the delegate to the Syracuse Convention, to whom up things for the Order. A. B. G.

Washington King and John Miller saved shingles, this week, for Reuben S. Weller, a deaf mute, of Silver Run, Md. The shingles are for a new roof for his barn.

NEW ENGLAND.

Now for the New Haven Convention.

BASS POINT PICNIC.

News from Here and There

[Any New England News or business for the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL may be sent to Geo. C. Sawyer, 79 Milton Ave. Dorchester, Mass.]

In accordance with the instructions of the New England Passenger Association, last Friday the Secretary sent a request to the various railroad companies to place round trip tickets at reduced rates on sale at stations named on the list given in the JOURNAL and Register, to the New Haven Convention delegates. One hundred tickets have been ordered for Grand Central Station, N. Y., and seventy-five at Boston.

All efforts to secure reduced rates from the Eastern Steamship Company for the benefit of the Maine delegates were in vain, except Portland to Boston and return for $2.00, a slight reduction. Still the Augusta and Bangor delegates and other points in Maine are advised to take boats to Boston, then to New Haven by boat, which would be cheaper by from one to three dollars.

The postponed picnic which was held at Bass Point on Saturday, the 11th, drew no larger a crowd than on the previous Saturday, although the day was an ideal one for such an enjoyable excursion, as those who went declared it to be. Perhaps nearly every one is of the same mind—i.e., saving the pennies for the Convention or for vacations. Only nineteen went by boat, others went by way of Lynn. For the most part they kept in groups, roaming over the beautiful grounds, enjoying the Rustic theatre, roller skating, sitting on the rocks chatting and watching the numerous passing vessels. Mr. Bigelow was on hand with his camera, and took photographs of groups.

As the picnic was, it did not materially aid the Entertainment Fund. The fund will be about the same ($25.25).

Mrs. J. J. McNeill started last Saturday night for Winthrop, Me., where she will be the guest of Mrs. J. A. Haynes for a week or two.

Mr. W. H. Perry's family leave Boston by boat for Bar Harbor, Me., on the 13th, to spend a couple of weeks with Mrs. Perry's relatives.

Earl and Ethel Bigelow, twin children of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bigelow, are spending a few weeks with their aunt, at Boothbay Harbor, Me.

Mrs. J. Charles Chaplin and children are still at Duxbury, Mass. They like the place so well that they contemplate building a cottage there, to be occupied by next summer.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. O'Neil have left East Dorset, Vt., after a two weeks' visit, and are now spending a few days with relatives, at Winchendon, Mass.

A small party of Bostonians met at Savin Hill Beach last Thursday, and spent the day boating and bathing. Fred Wood, Jr., who owns a catboat, generously took all the party around Dorchester Bay. He manages his boat well for a boy of his age. Not only that, but he swims like a fish, as we could see as we sat on shore watching him and his chum in a swimming contest to reach the boat, which was anchored far out in the Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes spent the 5th, as the guests of Mrs. P. S. Bowden, at Marblehead, and the following Sunday spent the day at Gloucester.

Miss Emma White, eldest daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. White returned to her duties at Fanwood after spending a month at her home in Brighton, Mass. Those who saw her could hardly realize that the little Emma they believe they saw only a few years ago has actually grown up into a most refined looking young lady. Her sister Hattie is rapidly climbing up. This Fall she enters the Brighton High School. She is unusually bright for her age, and gives promise for the future.

Little Gertie Kemp, daughter of Mrs. W. L. Kemp, of Dorchester, spent a week visiting the children of Mr. and Mrs. Sanger. She attended the Bass Point and Savin Hill picnic, and in other ways the five little ones enjoyed themselves as only little ones will when let loose.

After the Convention, excursion parties will be in order, there are so numerous lines of steamers running from Boston, that there will be plenty of places to see and enjoy. Among them Provincetown, Plymouth and Gloucester. Those who enjoy long trips will no doubt find those trips especially enjoyable.

We hear, through Matron Mrs. Ryan, of the Home, that Messrs. Duran and Livingston have done well in the poultry business for the Home, and it is still growing. They have plenty of fresh eggs and can have chicken pie when desired. They are now wishing for a cow, so if there is no generous-hearted farmer among the deaf to send a cow on, let's us have a "Cow Party" next Fall. This don't mean that we will all have to go there rigged up as cows; no, only the proceeds will be devoted to the "Cow Fund."

The Sunday magazine of the Boston Post of August 12th, has an interesting article written by Prof. Eugene Wood, of South Framingham, and is entitled "How the Deaf are Taught."

The New England friends of Mrs. Chloe W. Waring, of Grinnell, Ia., formerly Miss Childs, of Bath, N. H., will be pleased to know that she has recovered from a several weeks' illness, and that she and Mr. Waring are doing well. Mrs. Waring's father died over a year ago, leaving an estate of two houses to her, one of which the couple themselves occupy, and the other is rented. The house they occupy has had many improvements since. A cement sidewalk and city water and sewer will be put in. Mrs. Waring's father suffered a big loss of money in a wrecked bank just before his death. Mr. Waring is in a printing business from which he derives a liberal income.

At the time of Mrs. Waring's connection with the Old Hartford, her school-mates will remember her father supplying them with maple sugar raised on his fine farm in New Hampshire.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Waring are longing for a visit to the East, and hope to do so before long.

Miss A. G. Sawyer was the guest of a neighbor friend at the latter's summer cottage, in Winthrop Beach for a week.

W. E. Shaw is evidently a hustler; he went to Bangor on business last week, and upon his return on the day of the picnic, he attended it. Then he intends to go to Portland then back to Boston, and go on to New Haven, all within a week.

Edward Welch is another busy traveller too. His last trip was to Cape Cod, and returned last week. He reported Mrs. Sparrow, the widow of the late Mr. W. N. Sparrow, and her family in good health, and her home has been improved in many ways. He reported an uneducated Portuguese deaf-mute living at Provincetown and in quest of a wife. He owns a good house, makes a good living in fishing, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Frisbee started a two weeks' vacation last week, on a visit to Connecticut and New York, and in the meantime will attend the Convention.

The Home subject will probably be taken up for discussion at the Convention, and the question will be "Ought the New England Gallaudet Association to aid the Home permanently."

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Mr. Charles Kessler, of this city, who has been living in Chicago, during his married life, was here to see his parents and friends. All were glad to see him.

Sunday, July 23d, about twenty from here boarded a car for Niagara Falls, and had a splendid time. The following list will give a good idea of those who went: Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs, Critchley, Kimmel, De Young, Wackerman, Wood, Borinstein and children, Messrs. Hicks, Misses Lottie and Annie Kennedy, Eva Sullivan, M. Puspikie, and Mrs. Connor, of Syracuse.

On returning, Mr. and Mrs. Borinstein stopped at Buffalo—Mr. Borinstein till Monday eve—the other three for a two weeks' visit to her sister's and mother's, at Crystal Beach. While at her sister's, Mrs. Newhouse Leslie, her youngest son, in trying to jump from the porch railing, got his foot caught, fell and broke his elbow bones very badly. Last year the oldest boy broke his arm by falling from his wheel.

Mrs. Albert Hockstahl has returned from a very pleasant visit to her home in New York.

Miss Florence Hill is having a splendid time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Koehler in Canada.

Mr. Leonard Chamberlain, of Susquehanna, Pa., is going to move to Rochester with his parents. He likes Rochester very much.

When Old Sol gets so hot his rays are unbearable, how nice it is to take a car and go to the cooling lake breezes, but when it is real cool and you think it will get hot and does not, and take a car and forget your jacket, or think you won't need one and ride along toward the "lake breezes," you feel you are in an ice car. This was the unpleasant experience of several deaf, and a car full of hearing people recently, and in an open car, too.

Mr. Charles Bentel, who was a pupil at the Institution here, died in Buffalo recently. He was for several years a sufferer with asthma.

The Black Gill Club boys will go to Conesus Lake, Sunday, 26th. All friends welcome to join them. Go rain or shine.

Mr. Robert Maynard, who has been spending a week in this city, has returned home. Tom.

FANWOOD.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Mr. Philip Schmidt, who was the Institution night policeman from 1901 to the present year, and who has occupied the old Mansion House as a residence for over a year, is now on the retired list, with a pension of $700 a year. Mr. Schmidt is having a new house built for himself and family, on the outskirts of the town of Jeffersonville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., and when it is finished he will move into it and live, we hope, in health and quiet and loving words.

Mr. Alfred G. Barry was up here, Saturday evening last, visiting the Fanwoodites who remain during the summer vacation. He intended to attend the outing of the Guild of Silent Workers, but had mistaken Cosmopolitan Park for Van Cortlandt, and so came here instead to see the boys. He says he had only one week, instead of two, cruising on Long Island Sound, on his sloop the Hornet, on account of an accident. His brother will purchase a motor boat and with Alfred and some hearing friends, will make a trip to the Great Lakes.

Mr. Robert E. Maynard arrived here Monday morning from a ten days' leave, which was spent at Syracuse during the Empire State Association convention, and then on the cool waters of Lake Ontario, at Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Rochester. He appears to have benefited by his vacation.

Mr. George Wilkinson, our storekeeper, attended a base ball game, some time ago, at the Polo Grounds between the Giants and the Cubs, and came back with a broad smile on his countenance, which showed how delighted he was to see the Giants defeat their opponents. For him baseball is a lively and interesting game, and cricket remains in the background.

Saturday afternoon last, Mr. Joseph Berkel expected to go over the Harlem River to pitch for a number of Knights of the Bat and Ball. His hopes of making a few opponents cool the atmosphere near them were partly crushed by a thunder shower, but after it ceased he went over all the same, and came back earlier than he expected, bearing the sad tale that the opposing team did not show up on account of the rain.

Mr. Hodgson received two post cards from Mr. Philip Rotherham, our physical instructor, which had been sent from England. Mr. Rotherham wrote that he had a pleasant voyage, and is having a fine time. He belonged to the English mounted yeomanry and has seen service during the Boer War.

The scaffolding used to renovate the chapel ceiling, has been torn down, and now there is no call for further service at the hands of the painters.

Mr. Anthony Capelli was knocked down by a surface car on Amsterdam Avenue, and as a result had his elbows and knees bruised slightly.

Principal Currier arrived here, Monday morning, after being away for a few days.

Sunday last we had as visitors, Frank Harris, of Springfield, Mass., Ralph L. Harris, and E. C. H. Crane, of Northampton, Mass.

Mr. Edwin A. Hodgson went to the funeral of Mr. Charles E. Green, last Friday.

Mr. Davies, our night watchman, is on his vacation now. Mr. Maynard met him on the railroad, going to Albany. He has gone to Rutland, Vt.

Joseph Dennon was down town Saturday last to see his uncle, who was sick.

William Wren went to Brighton Beach, Saturday, with his cousin, and reported an enjoyable afternoon.

Frank Carley and Joseph Hynes were up here Sunday before last.

Academy of Music.

Dustin Farnum in "The Virginian," supported by the Kirk La Shelle players, began a brief engagement at the Academy of Music, New York, Thursday evening, August 9th. The stage adaptation of Owen Wister's story of the plains has already proven one of the most popular book dramatizations of recent production. The virtue of the story has been carefully preserved in the transition from book to play, and in the production it is known that every effort has been made to have the scenery, the incidents, the graphic and absorbing narrative and the sense of atmosphere on the same high and spirited plane that popularized the novel. The characters are skilfully drawn and there is none of that highly colored material usually associated with stage portrayals of life on the plains. The Virginian, Steve, Trampas, Spanish Ed, and the other cowboys, now so familiar to the public, are living, moving beings, types of the West as could be found in that country when cattle raising was the only occupation and cattle stealing the only crime. As is conceded by all who have seen this play, one of the most convincing elements in its success is the portrayal of the title role by Dustin Farnum, whose quiet, winning and strong personality gives to the stage picture of Wister's cowboy that manliness and naturalness which makes him so lovable in the book.

Among 5,000 street car drivers in Vienna a recent census showed that there are 400 knights, about 50 barons and 4 counts.

GALLAUDET HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Hamilton have named their daughter, born on June 1st, Elizabeth Gallaudet Hamilton. As Mr. Hamilton is in charge of the farm, it may account for the baby receiving her middle name.

The new barn is in course of erection on the old site, a little way northeast of the Home building. It will soon be ready for use, then "Prince" will be better quartered.

Miss Palmer had a visit not long ago from her nephew and his wife, whose wedding she attended last Spring.

Miss Washburn was in Ossining, N. Y., for a few days during the latter part of June. She enjoyed a nice time, but was glad to get back.

Miss Warren will soon have an addition to her room furniture in the shape of a wardrobe, which under her supervision is being made in the workshops upstairs.

On Saturday, June 24, the deaf-mutes in attendance here were Mr. Timothy F. Driscoll, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Juhring, Miss Sarah E. Tallman, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gilbert and Mr. Fish, a last year graduate of Fanwood. Mr. Driscoll would have remained over night to conduct chapel services the next day, but he had an engagement which he could not put off.

Mrs. Sophia Nicholson has gone to France. Her address is 54 Tanbrough Street, Honore, Paris. This reminds the writer of a pleasant incident, which occurred several years ago, while Mrs. Nicholson was matron of the Home. A party of six French deaf-mutes came to this country for a brief sojourn. They were Messrs. Gaillard, Plessis, Des Perriers, Genis, Chazal and Mercier. Mr. Gaillard and Mr. Genis visited the Home, and Mrs. Nicholson invited them to luncheon, but they were obliged to decline and hurry away, as their conveyance time was up.

A few months ago Mr. Friday met with a pretty bad mishap by cutting his right foot with an axe, while he was using it, but he is all right now.

Mrs. Sarah Stratton Bayne was admitted to the Home on June 30th. She was born in Camden, N. J., but received her education in Philadelphia, Pa. Her grandson, William Friedman, will resume his studies at the Fanwood School when it re-opens next month.

Rev. Dr. Chamberlain officiated in the chapel Sunday, the 8th ult. His son and two daughters are in Vermont for a while.

Mr. Clarke was eighty-seven years old on the 14th of July. He is feeble and almost blind.

Mr. Caton went away on the 21st ult., to make some visits in Orange County, N. Y.

Wednesday afternoon, the 25th of July, several of the young ladies connected with the Sunday School of Zion Episcopal Church at the Falls, were given a drive to the Home grounds. An excellent repast which they brought was served and games were indulged in. They were chaperoned by Miss Kate Pott, of the Ladies' Board, Miss Kate Commack and Miss Alice Ketcham. Miss Pott's brother, Rev. Dr. W. H. Pott, is rector of the church.

Mrs. Bayne and Miss Warren were in the "Queen City," on the 30th ult. It rained but they did not get a wetting.

Miss E. P. Nelson, of Poughkeepsie, and Miss Irene Leavitt Nelson, of Warrenton, Va., were at the Home Sunday, a week ago. At noon the thermometer registered 85° in the shade.

From a recent conversation with Mrs. Herneritt Nurnberker Miller, the writer gleaned the following information: Mrs. Miller was born in Maintoskheim, Germany. She attended a school for deaf-mutes for five years in Wurzburg, Bavaria. In 1849 she emigrated to the United States, and at the age of seventeen years was enrolled as a pupil in the Institution for the Deaf, at Columbus, O., where she remained for a short time. Mrs. Miller returned to Germany and married a hearing man. They had seven children, all of whom are now dead. The couple came back to New York in 1872, but did not mingle with those similarly afflicted, so nothing was known of them.

Tons of coal are being stowed away in the cellar for winter use.

Miss Lena Freyberg and Mr. Koffman dropped in here a few weeks ago. They missed the train at Camelot for Poughkeepsie, and had to take a trolley car at the four corners, to which place they walked.

The Gallaudet Memorial.

It is proposed to create a memorial to the late Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, D.D., by the erection of a Parish Building for St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes. The present Church is situated on 148th Street, just west of Amsterdam Avenue, and is built some twenty-five feet back from the line of the street to permit the erection of such a building as above indicated, which will form a facade to the church edifice and be a center of religious and social life amongst the silent peoples. Dr. Gallaudet hoped during his lifetime to see the erection of this building, which would have completed the church with which his name has always been associated. This was not permitted, and it is suggested as a most fitting memorial to him that this work be now undertaken. St. Ann's Church is used wholly for the deaf-mutes.

The new building will occupy a plot of ground about forty-five feet along the street front and twenty-five feet in depth. It will be three stories in height, with a basement, and will be used for the social, religious and industrial needs of the deaf-mutes of New York. The amount required for "The Gallaudet Memorial Parish Building" will be about $30,000, and the building itself, in its position and purpose, will form a conspicuous monument to him whose life was devoted to the silent peoples. They themselves heartily endorse the memorial.
